Purpose

The Master of Science in Management – Human Resource Management (MSM-HRM) program is designed as a specialized management graduate degree to serve working professionals who are interested in developing and/or enhancing their knowledge and skills in Management with a specific focus on Human Resources.

The purpose of this program is to prepare individuals to be professionals in human resource management (HRM). This curriculum provides a generalist program of study. Specifically, the program addresses and HRM theories and methods - including organizational behavior, employment law, employee staffing and development, strategic compensation management, and strategic human resource management. The program content also gives students the general business tools that HRM professionals need to align HRM practices with the broader strategic orientation of the organization. Although the MSM-HRM program prepares students for an HRM career in any industry, there is a focus on the unique human resource challenges encountered in a technological environment. Students will gain valuable experience in the field of HRM by completing a practicum prior to graduation.

The MSM-HRM program is designed to meet the highest standards of curriculum quality, faculty excellence, and program relevance in accordance with the College of Business’ accreditation by AACSB International-The Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business.
