The academic discipline of Political Science introduces students to critical thinking about the intellectual origins, defense, and critique of government, politics, and society in the United States and throughout the world. Political science classes focus on fundamental questions of governance: How should state and society be organized? How do the values of civil society and the economy influence political thinking? Who should exercise political power and who should not? What constitutes justice?

The Department of Political Science offers the following degree programs:

• Political Science, BA
• Political Science Minor
• Public Affairs and Policy, MA

Program Objectives

The Department of Political Science offers the Bachelor of Arts in Political Science, the Minor in Political Science, and the Master of Arts in Public Affairs and Policy. Faculty members assist students as they engage in empirical research and ethical critique of current events while evaluating competing explanations of those events with regard to government, politics, and society. They take into account politically relevant conceptual elements and practices embedded in or struggling against the intellectual foundations and elaborate edifices of diverse political arrangements and causes. Faculty members profess expertise in the discipline within which they teach as well as engage in cutting-edge scholarship to share with students more accurate and sophisticated explanations of and discoveries into the human condition, particularly as they relate to living socially and making decisions politically.

PSC 101 - INTRO TO AMERICAN GOVERNMENT
Semester Hours: 3

What motivates individuals and groups to act politically? This course introduces students to political structures, decision-making, and public policy in the U.S. The role of history in the development of current institutional structures and current political developments will be considered.

PSC 102 - INTRO TO COMPARATIVE POLITICS
Semester Hours: 3

In this class we explore ways to compare countries and political systems. We study a wide variety of countries for a better understanding of political dynamics around the world. This includes countries at various stages of industrialization and democratization, in different regions of the globe.

PSC 103 - INTRO TO STATE & LOCAL GOVT
Semester Hours: 3

Surveys the principles, forms, functions, and processes of state and local governments in the context of the American federal system, with specific emphasis on the political environment. Students will better understand the major functions of and the issues facing state and local governments.

PSC 260 - INTRODUCTION TO INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Semester Hours: 3

Examination of the basic factors underlying the conduct of international relations, focusing on conflict and changes taking place due to globalization. This course also seeks to stimulate intellectual curiosity, enhance critical thinking, and improve oral and writing skills.

PSC 300 - INTRO SOCIAL SCIENCE STATISTIC
Semester Hours: 3

This course covers basic statistical concepts, techniques, and the language of statistics; simple statistical modeling correlation and regression analysis; and nonlinear models and categorical models. Students will apply appropriate methods to analyze real world problems.
PSC 302 - AMERICAN CONGRESS
Semester Hours: 3
Studies the organization and role of the Congress, its leadership, internal processes, and relationships with other parts of the political system. The goal is to understand why Congress looks and acts the way it does, whose interests are represented, and how and why policies emerge as they do. Prerequisite: PSC 101.

PSC 304 - AMERICAN PRESIDENCY
Semester Hours: 3
Examination of the institution of the American presidency, its power, and the forces that shape it. Focus on developing students' ability to think conceptually and critically about the presidency, the president's role in the political system, and American politics in general. Prerequisite: PSC 101.

PSC 309 - POLITICAL PARTIES & INT GROUPS
Semester Hours: 3
A survey of major linkages between citizens and government, this course studies the formation, organization, activities, and impacts of political parties and interest groups - and factors affecting them. Students will think critically about these institutions and their roles in the American system. Prerequisite: PSC 101.

PSC 330 - CLASSI POLITI PHILOSOPHY
Semester Hours: 3
Careful analysis of the roots of political inquiry in selected works of ancient and medieval political philosophers. Major themes include the search for a just social order, the proper relationship between the citizen and the state, and other fundamental concepts of western political institutions. Prerequisite: PSC 101 or PHL 101 or PHL 102 or PHL 202 or permission of instructor.

PSC 332 - MODERN POLITICAL PHILOSOPHY
Semester Hours: 3
Critical examination of the philosophical foundations for modern politics that emerged from the 15th through the 19th century in western Europe. Major themes include the concepts of individual rights, property, representation, majority rule, limited government, and revolution. Prerequisite: PSC 101 or PHL 101 or PHL 102 or permission of instructor.

PSC 334 - AMER POLITICAL THOUGHT
Semester Hours: 3
In-depth study of theorists, concepts and forces that have shaped American political values from the founding of the republic to the present. Major themes include the relationship between liberty and equality, rights and democracy, and industrialization and the public good. Prerequisite: PSC 101.

PSC 399 - CURRENT AFFAIRS
Semester Hour: 1
An examination of current national and international issues. Focus is on developing critical reading, listening, and writing skills. The course may be repeated up to three times.

PSC 420 - FEDERALISM & INTERGOV RELATION
Semester Hours: 3
Designed to help students navigate complex relationships among the 90,000+ governments in the U.S., this course examines the framework of federalism and the tools available to governments to influence public policy outcomes. Students will investigate the impacts of these relationships on policy. Prerequisite: PSC 101.

PSC 436 - POLITICAL IDEOLOGIES
Semester Hours: 3
Critical examination of the philosophical foundations and political ethics of contemporary political ideologies. Among the major ideologies studied will be relevant examples of conservatism, liberalism, Marxism, Nazism, and religion, such as liberation theology and Islamism. Prerequisite: PSC 101.

PSC 438 - CONTEMPORARY POLITICAL THOUGHT
Semester Hours: 3
Systematic study of recent and current thinking on issues and problems of politics, social theory, and ethics with special attention to the philosophical dimension of these issues and problems.

PSC 440 - REGIONAL STUDIES
Semester Hours: 3
This class compares and examines the politics of Asia, Latin America, the Middle East, or Africa, depending on the term. We focus on select countries of themes within each region as part of our study of political structures, history, and culture, for a deeper understanding of each area. Prerequisites: PSC 101 and PSC 102.
