The Department of Psychology offers B.A. and M.A. degrees in psychology. Psychology is an exciting and interesting scientific field that concerns why people think and behave the way they do. It is a tremendously varied field and a discipline with a bright and promising future. Though relatively young, psychology is an expansive discipline that incorporates topics from other disciplines such as biology, business, engineering, and education. Studying psychology requires students to solve problems, reason verbally and quantitatively, organize material, think critically, communicate clearly, and work effectively with others. At UAH, the psychology department is small and very student-centered. Students may take courses in clinical and counseling, experimental, social, developmental, cognitive, perceptual, biological, personality, industrial, and human factors psychology. In particular, students are required to gain an appreciation of the methods and tools used by psychologists to perform research or apply psychological principles in applied settings. Our capstone course in supervised research (PY 498) allows majors in the Psychological Sciences track to demonstrate those skills working with individual faculty members. Students in the Psychological Services track complete an internship as part of their capstone course (PY 488).

The Department of Psychology offers the following degree program at the undergraduate level:

- Psychology, BA (<http://catalog.uah.edu/undergrad/colleges-departments/arts-humanities-social-sciences/psychology/psychology-ba/>)

There are two tracks within the psychology degree - the Psychological Sciences Track, for those interested in research and pursuing an advanced degree within any area of Psychology, and the Psychological Services Track, for those interested in human services and pursuing a master's in counseling, social work, or a Psy.D. degree.

Mission

The focus of the Department of Psychology is threefold:

- teaching
- scholarship
- service

Consequently, the mission of the department centers upon the development of students, development of faculty and scholarly activities, and service to scholarly and professional societies as well as to appropriate communities, including those within UAH.

The Department of Psychology supports the Mission of the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences in a variety of ways. We provide close interactions between teachers and learners in our seminar courses, as well as in our research courses and internship opportunities. The Department of Psychology encourages personal and professional growth in its promotion of students' career exploration, knowledge acquisition, skill development (i.e., critical thinking, technical writing, oral communication, and statistical analyses), and valuation of diversity.
