Mission
The Department of Management, Marketing and Information Systems provides academically rigorous instruction on the use of analytical tools and theoretical concepts in information systems, management, management science, and marketing to help students understand and apply them to practical business problems in scientific, technological and traditional business environments, non-profits, and government agencies. The departmental faculty also develops and disseminates knowledge on diverse topics related to the information systems and assurance, management, management science, and marketing.

Marketing
A major in marketing allows those students with interests in developing and marketing products and services to gain the knowledge and skills needed to pursue careers in corporate digital marketing, supply chain in marketing, and general marketing. Since marketing is such a diverse area, the curriculum has been divided into three concentrations.

The Digital Marketing concentration focuses on marketing and analytical skills needed by industry and governments to develop effective, profitable social marketing strategies to interact with customers and partners. This concentration covers web analytics, marketing research, web and mobile applications, and online promotion mix. This concentration is designed for students interested in careers such as social media marketing manager, social media strategist, SEO strategist, and online community manager.

The Supply Chain in Marketing concentration involves all areas of the supply chain, from planning to distribution. The supply chain concentration prepares marketing students who are interested in business-to-business marketing to manage inter-organizational relationships that are necessary to integrate the transportation, logistics, purchasing, information technology, and operations across the network of firms. This concentration is designed to prepare students for careers in supply chain management with industrial firms and public sector organizations such as the Department of Defense and NASA.

The General Marketing concentration is designed for students in Marketing who are interested in business-to-consumer marketing. This concentration helps students develop research skills to identify market opportunities and prepares students with the managerial acumen to be successful in consumer product marketing or in retail management. This concentration gives students the flexibility to customize their major field coursework to fit their particular career ambitions.

There are three concentrations within the marketing major:

- Marketing, BSBA - Digital Marketing Concentration
- Marketing, BSBA - Supply Chain in Marketing Concentration
- Marketing, BSBA - General Marketing Concentration

Minor in Marketing
The College of Business offers a Marketing minor for business students who want additional knowledge in the subject but do not want an marketing major, and for students from other colleges who are interested in Marketing. The minor in Marketing is beneficial for students majoring in disciplines such as communications, sociology, or psychology, and can also be useful for students in science and engineering. Many students with majors from the College of Arts, Humanities, and Social Sciences choose to minor in marketing to prepare themselves for careers in advertising, public relations, marketing management, international marketing, marketing on the internet, and supply chain management. Science and Engineering students with an interest in new product development, marketing high technology products, international marketing, and supply chain management also minor in marketing.
